

What's New in 202? May 25, 2020

Important announcements:

All assignments must be submitted in a timely manner.

Students' grades will be affected if assignments are not being submitted or completed.

I must receive the week's assignments by the end of the week—Friday May 29th.

You can email or text me photos.

These are the assignments I need- in the following content areas (this week)

Reading:

Students must show me evidence that they are collecting facts on the animal they are researching: This is the sheet that must be filled in:

Animal _____
Has	Can	Is

I emailed this sheet last Wednesday, and Friday

Science:

These are the sheets in science (they show these images):

Science activities for this week:

Science Vocabulary (physical Properties)

Social Studies:

Complete the map sheet.

Math

The Friday Math sheet is the one I need. Students must demonstrate they can regroup, or "borrow" when subtracting.

Word Work

Make 4 "antonyms" word cards. Use words you know.

Example:

Hot--cold

Razkids.com --Read the story of The Three Little Pigs

Look under "my Assignments." Remember, you must read the story because it relates to the science assignments:

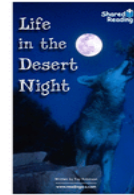

You are thinking about the Physical properties of

1—straw 2—sticks 3 bricks

Essential question? What natural resource (or type of building material) makes a strong house? Why?

Work from last week that I need: (week of May 18th)

- Science: 1 Science Scavenger Hunt sheet (on "Matter" -solid, liquid, gas)
Reading: 1 "Text Features" Scavenger Hunt Sheet
Social Studies: 1 Map activity
Math: 1 Math sheet
Word work: Read the lists of words (the adjectives) that describe properties of Matter.

Raz kids.com these are the books you had to read:

This was under My Assignments

Students are looking through the book and finding evidence of "text features"
Students should also review the sheet I emailed on "text features" as a resource.

Physical Education Class

Thursday is the day students will Zoom meet with Mr. Laureano. Students are scheduled for 9:20a.m beginning Thursday, May 28th.
